GOLDWIND USA AWARDS ENGINEERING CONTRACT FOR SHADY OAKS WIND FARM PROJECT TO SARGENT & LUNDY

Chicago, Ill. USA – Goldwind USA has selected Sargent & Lundy LLC to provide electrical engineering, design, and procurement services for the 109.5-MW Shady Oaks Wind Farm Project. The Shady Oaks project, located in Lee County, Ill., will consist of 71 Goldwind permanent magnet direct drive (PMDD) turbines.

The fourth largest wind turbine manufacturer globally, Goldwind opened offices and hired local staff in the Americas in 2010. With over 6,000 MW of turbines operating globally, the Shady Oaks project stands as the company's first entry into utility-scale projects in the United States. Energy from the project will be sold under a 20-year renewable energy offtake agreement with Commonwealth Edison through the Illinois Power Agency's long term procurement plan. The project is scheduled to be in service by the end of 2011.

Sargent & Lundy's scope of work includes complete engineering and procurement services for the 138/34.5 kV project substation, the 138 kV interconnection switchyard, and the cut-in of the existing 138 kV ComEd transmission line.
